Ladies' Quartet: "Work for the Night is Coming"—Messrs. Coon, Gulton, Sewell, Hargraves.
Solo Selected—Mrs. Lyon.
Chorus—Jubilant.

Everyone is cordially invited.
The baseball game between Albion and St. John's Academy was played Friday afternoon. St. John's won out with a score of 7 to 1. The Albion team put up a good fight but the opposing team proved too strong.

Mrs. Emma Herlick and her granddaughter, Cleo Herlick, went to Stoughton Friday to visit relatives. Mr. Wm. B. Brill who has been putting up about 15,000 cases of tobacco for the United Cigar Manufacturing Co., has returned to his home in New York.

A surprise party and shower was given in honor of the prospective bride and groom, Miss Eva Person and Mr. Charles Spike at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ike Spike Friday evening.

A few of Mr. and Mrs. Meyer's friends gave them an enjoyable surprise party Friday evening in honor of the doctor's birthday. The guests brought a spread and a jolly good time was enjoyed.

Common Sense Piano Buying

Let each Prospective Piano Buyer follow the dictates of his or her own common sense and a long stride towards better pianos will have been assured. Perhaps in no other line of business is there more of an element of chance in buying—Unless You Know the Standard Make of Piano You Are Getting or Know the Firm You are Dealing With is Unquestionable.

Don't be influenced by the absurd claims of irresponsible salesmen. Don't let imagination take the place of careful reasoning. For it stands to reason that the larger an organization is the better equipped it is to turn out a high grade of goods at a profit that is much smaller than can the manufacturer whose capacity is not so great.

Wherever you buy you pay every cent the goods are worth. With us you have reasonable assurance that you pay NO MORE than you ought to. That in itself is reason enough for getting our figures, at least.

The factory of which we are a unit is the largest in the world engaged in the manufacture of high-class pianos. See our pianos before you buy. Our prices are low. Our terms easy.

This Advertisement is For Automobile Owners

We have opened at No. 103 North Main Street a first-class establishment to be devoted to all kinds of automobile, tire and tube repairing, re-treading, relining, rebuilding, blowouts, cuts and punctures.

Wide Experience

We have had experience with all the leading tire manufacturers of this country: The Fisk Rubber Co. of Chicopee Falls, Mass.; The B. F. Goodrich Co. of Akron, O.; The Continental Caoutchouc Co. of Hanover, Germany; The Model Vulcanizing Co. of Chicago, Ill.; The Dayton Vulcanizing Co. of Dayton, O.; The Federal Rubber Co. of Milwaukee, N. J., and our foreman has had charge of the repair shops of the Whelpley Rubber Works, Chicago; the Nyberg Automobile Co. of Chicago; The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.'s New York branch, and has recently given up a position as foreman in the factory repair shop of the Republic Rubber Co. of Youngstown, Ohio, and Rubber Co.'s New York branch The Acme, The Federal and Republic shops.

This wide experience has enabled us to find all the weak and all the strong points in the different companies' methods. The weaknesses have been eliminated from our work and we use only what our wide experience has proven to us to be the very best, both as to material and method.

Workmanship Guaranteed the Best

We are here to stay and realize that to hold your work we must give the best. Our reputation is our stock in trade and to keep it we must back it up with the very best work, with jobs that hold and trends that wear. We will not burn your tires or send them back half cured. They must be right before they leave the shop.

We guarantee all our sectional jobs to wear as long as the old casing stands up. Our tire repairs are similarly guaranteed and retreads, rebuilds and rebulds are fully covered by our guarantee.

We not only guarantee our work but are here to back it. You don't have to pay express charges out of town only to find your tire is beyond repair. Bring them in to us and we will tell you whether or not your tire can be fixed and what it will cost you. You will know what can be done for you in a few minutes' time and you will have your tire back ready for use in less time than you can find out the condition of your tires from an out-of-town shop.

No False Claims

We make no false claims about making old tires better than new, using only the best of material, expert workmen, etc.

We do claim, however, that our experience has taught us what is right and what is wrong in tire repairing and guide ourselves accordingly in our selection of repair materials.

A man who lives in the backwoods all his life considers the customs and ways of the community the best and only.

The man who gets out and sees the world sees things that are wrong and things that are right. We believe the same principle applies to the tire repair business and have studied it in all its branches. Tire repairing is a hobby with us and we know it from A to Z.

Estimates and New Tires

Let us look your tires over and make you an estimate. If your tire is beyond repair we will tell you so.

If you need new tires get them now before the prices go up. Tire prices will advance 30 to 50 per cent by July 1st. We can supply you with any tire on the market and save you express charges. We will get you any make you want.

Call on us and let us show you through our shop. A trial will convince you that we know our business and can make it worth your while to deal with us.

CHARGE OF HOLDER ABSOLUTELY FALSE

STEEL COMPANY PHYSICIAN DENIES CHARGE OF A. F. OF L. AGENT.

HAD CHARGE OF HOSPITAL

Dr. Dinan Says He Treated Thousands of Injuries at Bethlehem Institution and Death Rate Was Only 1.7 Per Cent.

Bethlehem, Pa., May 21.—In reply to the charge of A. E. Holder, legislative agent of the American Federation of Labor, before the senate committee at Washington that the steel manufacturing concerns in Pennsylvania are "veritable slaughter houses," Dr. J. A. Dinan, who was formerly superintendent of the Bethlehem Steel company hospital, said that it was an awful accusation and made Mr. Holder liable to prosecution at his hands.

Says Charges Absolutely Untrue. "It is absolutely untrue that men injured in the steel works were willfully killed in the hospital conducted by the Bethlehem Steel company to prevent them becoming cripples and thereby charges on the company," continued Dr. Dinan.

The hospital referred to by Mr. Holder has been abandoned nearly a year. It was in operation only about one year and a half, and Doctor Dinan was in charge of it nearly all of that time. The hospital was started shortly after Mr. Schwab began to spend millions in the erection of his Saucon plant.

Had Thousands of Cases. The numerous injuries occurring to workmen employed in the construction operations and the fact that St. Luke's hospital was several miles away made it advisable to establish an emergency hospital. Doctor Dinan was placed in charge, and he had several thousand cases, ranging from minor injuries to those more serious. The mortality rate was about 1.7 per cent.

The steel company officials refuse to discuss Mr. Holder's charges.

EX-GOVERNOR PLEADS GUILTY.

Rollins of New Hampshire Admits Smuggling and Is Fined $2,000.

New York, May 21.—Frank West Rollins, formerly governor of New Hampshire, pleaded guilty to smuggling before Judge Hand in the United States district court. A fine of $2,000 was imposed by the court.

The chief argument of Alfred Wheat, counsel for Rollins, was the plea that his client had been overwrought on account of the illness of his wife aboard ship.

The plea of guilty was made shortly after a federal grand jury had handed in an indictment charging him with a false declaration.

No bills were found against Mrs. Rollins and their son.

TWO TOWNS SWEEPED BY TORNADO

Many Persons Are Reported Killed in Oklahoma by Storm.

Paul Valley, Okla., May 21.—Maysville, a small town fifteen miles northwest of here, was wiped off the map by a tornado last evening and several persons were killed, according to meager reports received here.

The town of McCarty, near Maysville, was nearly swept away and three persons were killed. All wires are down and details cannot be learned.

One of the hardest hailstorms in the history of this section swept over a stretch of country near here, in places practically obliterating all signs of vegetation.

HER JOY RIDE

"Where were you yesterday afternoon?" asked the girl with pink roses on her hat of her companion. "I called up your office and your manager said you were out."

"Very much out," the other girl answered. "And Mr. Dillingworth was very much put out in token thereof." "I think he's the handsomest man," pensively observed the girl with pink roses on her hat.

"Handsome is as handsome does," said her companion severely. "Why, that man is too grumpy for any earthly use."

"Tell me all about it, Nita." "You remember Miss Greer?" began Nita. "She was taken ill in the office yesterday afternoon. Mr. Dillingworth asked me to take her to her home out on Sheridan road and he called an automobile for us."

"How lovely of him! Almost any other manager would have left you to the mercies of the street car."

"Miss Greer wasn't able to walk to the street car," Nita explained. "I helped her with hat and coat and Mr. Dillingworth sent the office boy down to the car with us."

"Alma stood directly in front of the door and I asked the chauffeur if he was waiting for the Universal company. He said he was, so the office boy assisted us in, closed the door and away we went."

"On the way out I was fully occupied in caring for Miss Greer. I hadn't a moment to enjoy speeding in state along the Lake Shore drive at three o'clock in the afternoon. Coming back, however, I sunk into the luxurious cushions and imagined myself somebody."

"It was a splendid car—beautiful cut-glass twin vases for flowers, a mirror, a clock, electric lights, a velvet rug on the floor, a wonderful robe—everything. I enjoyed it so thoroughly that I asked all over. I took myself to task for having thought Mr. Dillingworth grumpy. It was his delicate consideration that had made this delightful ride possible. I was stricken with a fit of remorse, filled with a hundred appreciative thoughts, made a thousand virtuous resolutions."

"As my eyes rested on Lake Michigan, blue and smiling in the sunshine, I promised myself that thenceforth I'd be an angel of patience and gentleness even when the manager was at his grumpest."

"The moment I entered the office, however, I divined that something was amiss. Mr. Dillingworth maintained what I suppose he considered a dignified silence, but my intimate knowledge of him enabled me instantly to pronounce it a lamentable exhibition of bad temper. Mr. Appleton, his assistant, enlightened me as to the cause."

"It seems that the president of the Universal company had come to the office in his car intent upon asking three gentlemen, whom he had invited to meet him there, out to the works. I had mistaken the president's limousine for the car Mr. Dillingworth had ordered and had simply run off with it. Every one in the office thought it a joke save the poor, dear, grumpy manager, whom it completely upset."

"What did the president and his guests do?"

"Took a taxi out to the works. It must have cost the company $50 at least, judging from Mr. Dillingworth's attitude to me ever since. You won't believe it, but without a word he gave me to mail a check for $4, together with the bill for the taxi that had stood waiting and working while Miss Greer and I were speeding north and I was returning. That I considered exceedingly impolite; he could just as well have mailed it himself and spared my feelings. I like to remember that I was perfectly sweet over the matter."

"When I came downstairs today I wished him a pleasant good morning as if nothing had happened and he couldn't have ignored me more completely if I'd been as dead as Julius Caesar. That, my dear, just shows you what a grumpy old thing he is."

"I've decided not to resign my position, however, because he would find it hard to fill my place with another girl who would be always patient and polite. Besides, I want to convince him that I harbor no ill feeling against him."

"I think you're just the noblest thing," said the girl with pink roses on her hat, admiringly.

The Needs of the Day.

Manhood has so far been ruled by things and by words, not by thought, for till the last few moments of history humanity has not been in possession of the conditions of secure and effective thinking. Without ignoring in the least the consolation that has come to men from their literary education, I would even go so far as to say that only the gradual replacing of a literary by a scientific education can assure to man the progressive amelioration of his lot. Unless we master things we shall continue to be mastered by them; the magic that words cast upon things may indeed disguise our subjection or render us less dissatisfied with it, but after all, science, not words, casts the only compelling spell upon things.—Prof. John Dewey, in Science.

IT'S YOUR INNING FOR AN OUTING

One-half the pleasure of an outing depends in a choice of the right place; the other depends on the choice of the right method in reaching it.

The one best place to go for an enjoyable outing is up the river and the one best way to reach it is in one of our boats. Up the river will be found some wonderful scenic beauty, the seeing of which will amply repay you for the cost of the trip, not considering the benefits to be derived from the tonic properties of the glorious fresh air. Our boats are always in top notch condition. Our charges moderate.

Fishermen who wish to start on an early Sunday fishing trip can get boats and minnows here at any hour.

Auto livery in connection offers unlimited possibilities for outing and social good times. To professional and business men who wish to make short business trips when time is at a premium this service is particularly adapted to their needs. Drivers are experienced and capable. Charges reasonable. Service effective day or night.

OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

"The greater rewards come in business, not in politics," so said the Hon. Joseph Cannon in a recent speech. And, in a sense, he said truly.

But in a larger sense the really great rewards come no more readily to the man in one profession than to the man in another.

They are within the grasp of every man who is wise enough to realize their worth. They confer no outward splendor. Only an inward calm.

The lesser rewards are those which society easily recognizes. The greater are those which the individual alone discovers. The first are measured by simple social standards. The latter by the soul's naked scales.

"I was all and all was nothing," so spoke the Emperor Severus of the lesser triumphs of earth. "I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith," there speaks the man who knew the greatest.

Gold and gear and power and reputation are good when rightly got and used. But existence would indeed be poor if it offered nothing richer. "Reward" would lose its deepest meaning.

Of the little things there may at times be dearth. Of the highest there is always enough and to spare! For the lesser rewards there may be competition. But each man finds the greatest in himself—or nowhere!

This terse statement from an exchange, on what constitutes the greater rewards in life, is true to the letter. The world is full of dissatisfied people who long for that which is cast in unfairly placed where opportunities are so rare as to be almost a stranger, and yet the most of us are working out the largest destiny of which we are capable.

The government at the request of the Federation of Labor, is about to commence the investigation of labor conditions in the great plant of the United States Steel Company, which has on its payroll 238,000 men.

Many of their plants have blast furnaces, and are obliged to run seven days in the week and while the shifts are changed every week some of the men are obliged to work 12 hours.

Much of this labor is unskilled labor, performed by men from the old world, satisfied to work long hours for liberal pay as compared to wages across the sea.

The microbes of discontent never annoy them until introduced by labor agitators for their capital was in their hands and they were satisfied to invest muscle and content with the reward.

The work they perform is hard manual labor, classed with railroad construction and ditch digging. A class of work which contractors have long since discovered will not be performed by American born citizens.

These laborers swarm to our shores in great multitudes every year. Stand by the side of the inspection officers, who admit them at Ellis Island and you find that a capital of $25 is all that is required to admit them to our land as citizens and not as paupers and frequently this money is furnished by friends or prospective employers.

It is willing to work and the most of them are, they soon find employment and a week's wages represents more money than they ever earned in a month at home.

Many of these people are frugal and from their savings every year a stream of money goes abroad to transport their friends to the new land of promise and opportunity.

If they possess the brain and intelligence to develop skill and export workmanship, recognition follows, and they advance the same as men in other ranks. That many of them retain an imported thirst is evidenced by the fact that when 130 new saloons opened the other day at Gary, Indiana, after the territory had been dry for two years, the town took a day off to celebrate and 5,000 men quenched their thirst to the queen's taste.

There is another side to this labor proposition which is not always considered. President Gary of the United States Steel Corporation, said not long ago that 20 employees of the steel plant owned their own automobiles.

The great army of men employed represent all degrees of intelligence and ability and there is room near the top for every man who possesses the ambition and ability to climb.

This is true in every avenue of life and a good deal of false sentiment is entertained concerning conditions which only apply to the lower status in the field of industry.

The fact is recognized by every observant that a large majority of the human family work under direction and it is fortunate that this work and direction possible.

The man who talks without responsibility is care free and in many instances he is the happiest man in existence. Were it not for the fact that he is the victim of agitation on the part of designing leaders, his peace of mind would seldom be disturbed.

The man who goes through life on a moderate income practicing habits of thrift and economy, free from worry and responsibility is the man most certain of reaching some of the greatest rewards the world has to offer.

The successes of life are not dependent upon wealth or fame, but are found in the faithful performance of the work in hand. The network of railways which cover the land like a spider's web is the avenue where an army of skilled workmen find employment. These men are successful toilers with no money invested.

The same conditions prevail in all the great industries. The planning and financing and execution is distributed among the masses and in its cheerful and faithful performance, the great machinery of the world's mechanism runs without friction.

Every young man should enter the workshop of life, resolved to be a climber and the best way to climb is to learn early in the game to do one thing well. Hand competition is always sharp and always will be but the combination of hand and brain is the force which wins in the upward climb. Some one said, not long ago.

"When a farmer goes to town with a load of potatoes he doesn't have to put the big ones on top. He drives over the rough road, and the shaking of the wagon box brings the large ones to the top and sends the small ones to the bottom. This old world is continually shaking the struggling mass of humanity to size up the individuals. If you are a big potato—big enough and gritty enough to do your best under discouraging circumstances—you will come to the top. But if you are a small potato; if you whimper and whine about not having a chance and not being appreciated, if you prove a quitter when you should be hitting your best flicks, you will go to the bottom. Do your best or get off the job and make room for some one else."

The Milwaukee Journal appears surprised that the Gazette should support Senator E. T. Fairchild in his contest for the republican nomination for Governor. There is no need for this wonderment as the Gazette has long been known as a republican newspaper and in supporting Senator Fairchild is simply renewing its assurance of loyalty to Taft and the republican party as represented by the only candidate in the state who has thus avowed his position on this subject without any quibbling. One of the best recommendations that Senator Fairchild can possibly have in his campaign is that the Journal opposes him.

According to reports of experts the comet is still wandering around without any tail. Perhaps this lost tail might be found if it is judiciously advertised for by the poor comet who must feel lost without it.

It might be the duty of the board of education to make an investigation of the conditions of the room in the high school building where the graduating exercises are held and see if it is perfectly safe to permit its use for the crowds that will assemble there during graduation week. Perhaps also it might be a precaution against accidents by fire and other wise to expend a few dollars and hire the opera house for these exercises. Should a panic or a fire occur while the high school room was crowded with children and their parents, at the graduation exercises, it is safe to say that many would never reach the ground alive. The money saved by not hiring a suitable hall for the exercises would in such an event prove decidedly false economy. Panics and fires do happen at the most unexpected moments. Think it over gentlemen.

PRESS COMMENTS.

Concerning Kirby.

A newspaperman who betrays a confidential relation, even if he does not add falsehood to his perjury, certainly ought to be kicked out.—Milwaukee Free Press.

Wonder Who?

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness, and some, strive for it by posing as being bigger than their party.—Waukegan Record Herald.

Primitive Strike.

The Pueblo Indians are on the war-path down in New Mexico. The Eastern tenderfoot probably failed to pay enough for their jars and colored blankets.—Shoebogyan Journal.

Nature Faking.

Marquette boasts of a frog that swallowed an alligator. The town also has a Junior senator who once swallowed his senior; but was compelled to return him to earth because he would not digest. Grant town is Marquette.—Maulson Journal.

Social and Other Democrats.

The fact that the insurgents and the regulars have reached an agreement on the postal savings bank bill, which meets the approval of the president, following, as it does, the passage of the rail bill, points to an understanding that means the saving of the administration program. At the same time it will disappoint those people who were planning to profit by the recent chaos which have occurred within the ranks of the republican party.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Dirty Politics.

The petty malice of the assault on Secretary Bullinger has revealed itself at every turn during the tedious pending investigation. In nothing has it been more apparent than in the effort to throw discredit on the President's letter in which he reviewed the case just prior to starting upon his transcontinental tour. The President has put a quietus on the mean insinuation current on this subject by his letter to Senator Nelson. In connection with the text of this letter is published the assurance from Washington that the investigation of the public, which grew tired of the whole miserable mess at an early stage, and which is fully satisfied that Secretary Bullinger has been grossly misapprehended, apparently for the purpose of trying to throw discredit upon the administration of President Taft, the cessation of the turgid flood of misrepresentation will be a pleasant relief.—Milwaukee Wisconsin.

High and Low Dangers.

This makes the sacredness and awfulness of life when we come to know it that we are never so near our highest as when we are most sensible of the danger of the lowest is never so real to us as when the splendor of the highest stands wide open.

Your Deserts.

For him who no longer is, everyone is ready to commend, so that to whatever height you push your deserts, you will scarce ever be thought to equal, but to be somewhat inferior to them.—Pericles.

Hard to Offset.

FORD

The Quality Car at a Low Price

We can make one delivery June 1st.
We can make two more deliveries June 10th.

Carefully scrutinize every minutest part of the Ford Model "T" Car, and you will appreciate why the imprint "Ford" on an automobile is as the mark "sterling" on silver—a guarantee of quality.

Take the engine in this car. Admittedly the engine of any car is the heart, the head, the vital organ of that car,—its success or failure spells the make or ruin of the completed product. The engine of the Model "T" Ford hasn't a superior. It has been the sensation of America and Europe for the last two years. Take the time to examine this one vital feature of the Ford Car,—the engine,—and you will appreciate one of the reasons for the prestige of Ford.

And there's the Magneto, a built-in part of the engine; there's the oiling system; there's the Ford Patented Final Drive, right now infringed by a score of other manufacturers. There's the use of Vanadium Steel wherever strength is a requisite, and Aluminum where weight reduction is essential. These are quality features that indelibly mark the Ford Cars as the leader of the entire industry.

Quality only, not price, has established the reputation this Ford Car has attained.

The price is just right. It was established after the car had been designed and built, and the exact cost computed on an immense output.

There's a Model "T" Ford for every requirement,—a three-passenger roadster for $900.00, a four-passenger touring car for $950.00,—both of these having detachable and interchangeable rear seats, the touring car for $950.00 as illustrated; for $1050.00 an inside drive coupe for all sorts of use, especially in winter and in inclement weather, and the Town Car at $1200.00, which admirably serves all the purposes usually exacted of a limousine.

And because of it all, the substitution of quality for quantity, simplicity for complications, originality for imitation, brains for guesswork, this Ford Car is the lightest touring car built today, and will travel as many miles for a less cost per passenger mile than any.

On February 3rd, in an economy test on the sandy roads around Pensacola, Fla., one of these Ford Cars officially covered 28.7 miles on one gallon of gasoline, while the car that accompanied it as checker consumed nearly three gallons. A Model "T" Touring Car in the livery service recently made 4100 miles between October 8th and November 27th, 1909, without a tire puncture, and with no repair bill.

Ford has saved thousands of dollars to automobile buyers through his belief in the possibilities of low prices, and his ability to manufacture a car of such high quality as to create an enormous sale and so make possible a closer price.

The Light Weight of the FORD Makes the Upkeep Cost the Lowest

LOCAL REPRESENTATIVES

Heart to Heart. Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TOMORROW.

Tomorrow I will not myself to the task that is close at hand and needing my urgent attention. Today I am too busy or too tired or too lazy to undertake the job.

Tomorrow I will take the time for the graceful and tender word I forgot or neglected to speak today.

Tomorrow I will do the generous deed I thought to do today, but failed to perform.

Tomorrow I will begin the pursuit of the realities of life. I will put away from me the petty simulations and the foolish struggles for that which is naught. Today I am busy with my own selfish concerns.

Tomorrow I will tune my soul into close accord with the harmonies of life. I will be more thoughtful and gentle and courteous.

Tomorrow the speech of love shall not be permitted to stick in my throat. I will be more charitable and more helpful to my fellows.

Tomorrow—ah, the things I will do tomorrow!

Foolish soul of me! Do I not know there is no such entity as tomorrow?

Do I not know that tomorrow, so called, is but the extension of today; that eternity itself is only today—today extended on and on?

Tomorrow does not exist. When I think tomorrow has come it is today. Always it is but today or yesterday.

The word was first invented by men who are like us—men who wished to push away from themselves the fronted duty they dared not face today.

To say that I will do today's duty tomorrow is to "resolve and re-resolve, then die the same."

Resolution, however harnessed, will not prove with tomorrow. Hitched up with today, resolution turns great furrows.

Do you say to yourself, "True enough yet!" Surely you have all the time there is—the time of today. And there is no other time, there will be no other time.

Delude not yourself into thinking that tomorrow will come. It is not coming. Today is coming. Therefore—

Whatever the urgent task you have to do, whatever the special word you need to say, do not wait or juggle with tomorrow. Begin today.

A CALL DOWN.

Scribbler—Do you think my jokes will live?

Ruyter—Sure. Why, some of them are over a hundred years old now.

Uncle.

"You can't tell," said uncle to us, "you can't tell. 'Feller I know that's a pathetic artist—know what he does? He smokes chewin' tobacco in a pipe that's made of rubber. Honest, he does. An' he claims his health is delicate!"

HER IDEA.

The Hotless—Hot water prevents wrinkles.
The Caller—I don't know; my husband keeps me in hot water all the time, and I have a crow's foot or two.

THEIR TRUE VALUE.

The Congressman—A great many men are never taken at their true value.

The Senator—That's right. I've known corporations to pay big money for votes that they could have gotten for almost nothing.

LIKED TO TALK.

Jones—There are more words in the Chinese language than in any other language.

Smith—Don't let my wife hear you, or she'll be taking lessons in Chinese.

One Way Out.

A many time millionaire says he still remains a bachelor because he fears a girl might wed him for his money alone. Why not try a woman who has no idea of the value of money?—New York Evening Telegram.

In Denmark.

The right third finger is the proper place for the wedding ring in Denmark. A plain gold band is presented to the maid at her betrothal and on her wedding day the bridegroom merely changes it to her right third finger.

The Philosopher of Folly.

"The queerest stunt I know of," says the Philosopher of Folly, "is telling secrets. You expect somebody else to keep still about your self."

Fine Memory in Old Age.

Although in her ninety-seventh year, a woman who is an inmate of the Wareham (Dorsetshire, Eng.) workhouse recently recited one of Dr. Watts' poems without a break at an entertainment given at the institution.

See Who Knocks.

Sometimes when Joy knocks at the door we think it is the Wolf, come to devour us, and fail to rise and open. However, it is wise to take a peep through the window and make sure.

The Pea Long Known to Man.

From its original home as a native, wild growth in western Asia and adjacent Europe the cultivated pea has been taken by man to all civilized countries. It has been cultivated for thousands of years, for dried peas have been found in Egyptian tombs.

Incurving Eyelashes.

Incurving eyelashes usually occur on the lower lid, and only by their removal gives comfort.

A Half Truth.

"The heroine let her beautiful hair fall about her shoulders," wrote the novelist. Being an idealist he neglected to state that the fastenings came loose and that the hair fell in a heap on the floor.

Substitute Needed.

"I have often wondered," says the Philosopher of Folly, "where people who don't believe in its existence tell people to go to, when they get angry." —Cleveland Leader.

Fastidious Cabman.

An old lady about to hire a cab in London asked the cabman if he could take her to Trafalgar square. The cabman replied: "No, mum. I can't and I wouldn't if I could, and the next time you want to eat onions bile 'em!"

Density of Population.

As nearly as can be estimated there are 30 inhabitants to the square mile on this globe.

We back up all statements made in our advertisements. We carry the stock and do the business. Large buying means close buying, bottom prices.

J.M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

It pays to stick to the truth in advertising. False statements only rebound against the merchant making them. The public soon get wise.

The Night Sale of Rugs Carpets and Curtains

Which Began This Morning, Remember, continues for two weeks--until June 3. All next week and the week following.

People have learned that when we make a sale IT MEANS BUSINESS. Our Mill Outlet Sale last Fall was a tremendous success. Our January Sale was a large one. The Mighty Sale of Rugs, Carpets and Curtains now going on promises to be a great event. Weather conditions were against us today. Nevertheless it didn't deter many from attending and no one went away dissatisfied.

Lace Curtains

These are proving particularly attractive and our wonderful sale prices are taking people quite by storm. They are lower in some instances than many merchants pay for them at wholesale. We buy more lace curtains than any 5 stores in Rock County. This is no idle talk. It is the naked truth. We can sell curtains to any merchant in Southern Wisconsin at as low a figure and even lower than they can buy them for from the largest wholesale houses. In the light of these facts you can better appreciate how we are able to make such low prices during THE MIGHTY SALE.

EVERY PAIR OF CURTAINS, EVERY YARD OF NET, IN FACT EVERYTHING IN THE CURTAIN SECTION IS GOING AT A REDUCED PRICE DURING THE MIGHTY SALE.

Rugs and Carpets

With Rock County's greatest stock to sell from, we have a distinct advantage over competition. During the Mighty Sale we offer FLOOR COVERINGS at prices that cannot fail to make housekeepers take notice.

THE PRICES which appeared in our Thursday and Friday ads will prevail for 2 weeks. Most people who are interested have no doubt studied them carefully.

Preserve the ad and bring it with you. It will make shopping easier for you. Our greatly enlarged Carpet and Curtain departments afford us room enough to entertain a large concourse of buyers. Take the elevator in north store. The Mighty Sale of Rugs, Carpets and Curtains continues for two weeks.

Killed by Express Train.
Chicago, May 21.—E. H. Beyer, thirty-four years old, a telegraph operator, was struck and almost instantly killed by an Illinois Central railroad express train at East Fifth street.

The above list are those who have had from 30 days to 15 months' use of the Cadillac "30"—have had from 1000 to 15,000 miles service. Ask any of them or all of them if they have ever had one dollar expense for mechanical replacements of any kind due to faulty construction, material or workmanship. Ask all of them if ever they have had one minute's engine trouble, transmission trouble, axle trouble or oiling trouble. Ask them how they like the agent's disposition to see that they get the best service possible.

Ask them if they had to do it over again what they would buy.

Ask them what they will take for their used car.

I am not bragging about the record of one user but the record of every one of my customers.

Now this is a demonstration worth while. An aggregate of several thousand miles in Janesville and surrounding country without trouble or expense of any kind.

TO HONOR THE FLAG

JUNE FOURTEENTH

Annual Flag Day is Decried by the New York Association For the Whole Country.

The American Flag association with headquarters in New York City has addressed a circular letter to the governor of each state, the mayor of each American city, the American newspapers, the officers and members of all American patriotic societies and to all citizens reminding them that June 14 will be the 13th anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the flag of the United States and by so doing to secure their cooperation in securing the widest possible observance this year.

It is desired that flags shall be displayed on this anniversary upon all public buildings of the states and cities, that editors of newspapers shall by editorial comment and the publication of historical articles upon the subject of the flag call attention to the day and call upon the public to display the national colors on Flag day.

MISS CAROLYN HATCH OF

EVANSVILLE WAS HOSTESS

At Pleasant Party At Her Home,
Given in Honor of Her Cousin,
Miss Vera Hatch.

(Special to this Gazette.)

Evansville, May 20.—A party of young ladies were most enjoyably entertained last evening by Miss Carolyn Hatch. Her cousin Miss Vera Hatch of Highland Center who has been visiting her for the past week was the honored guest. Near the close of the evening a fine luncheon was served, the table being attractively decorated in a color scheme of pink and white.
Cordonnas were used as favors.

Misses J. F. Hayes, Cora Austin

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, May 21, 1870.—The Mutual Baseball club have made arrangements with the celebrated White Stockings of Chicago, to play a game in this city on Friday next. This club is one of the best in the United States, and everyone should improve this opportunity to witness a first class game of ball.

The fire department was called out this afternoon by an alarm which proceeded from the house of John Dingle on Main street, near the railroad bridge. The woodshed on summer kitchen was discovered to be on fire, and the flames got under considerable headway, but a prompt and timely application of a few pails of water subdued them, before the engines got there. It is supposed to have taken from a spark which accidentally dropped and unobserved into the woodbox. As the work of finishing the new opera house in this city approaches completion, the beauty of the room begins to develop. The joiners will soon finish their labors and the frescoers are well advanced in the decoration of the walls. When the room is finished it will be one of the finest in the west, and Mr. Myers deserves the thanks of the community for the public spirit he has shown in providing this elegant hall.

A young man named John Craig rescued from drowning a lad who had fallen into the river from the abutment of the lower bridge the other day. He had hoisted down stream some rods and sunk for the last time when he was reached and saved.

After an illness of several days Mayor Doe is out again today. Strawberries are quite plenty in this market today at 25 cents per quart.

Major Taylor has sweet corn in his garden over two feet high and G. B. Griffin in the Fourth Ward has some only a trifle shorter on his premises.

CHERRY WIDOWS BEAT WOMAN.

Declare Mrs. Hennaut is Untrue to Memory of Husband.

Streator, Ill., May 21.—Alleging she had been untrue to the memory of her husband, a Cherry widow victim, five Holigan women who were also widowed by that disaster, forced an entrance to the home of Mrs. Irma Hennaut at Cherry and beat her severely. Each of the assailants was afterward arrested and fined.

COMET APPEARS MINUS A TAIL.

Observers at Williams Bay View Phenomenon for an Hour.

Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wis., May 21.—Halley's comet, minus a tail, was under observation in the west from 7:20 to 8:35 o'clock last night. At 8:10 o'clock the phenomenon was visible to the naked eye and remained so until it became lost behind a cloud bank at 8:35 o'clock. It disappeared below the western horizon.

Stopping an ad to save money is like stopping a clock to save time.

AMES TURNS HIS GUNS ON PAYNE IN HOUSE

Massachusetts Representative Raps Author of Law for Despotism.

Washington, May 21.—Representative Butler Ames, Republican, Massachusetts, springing a sensation in the house when he read a series of letters which passed between himself and Representative Sereno E. Payne, chairman of the ways and means committee, in which he scored Mr. Payne.

The letters concerned a resolution introduced in the house March 31 by Mr. Ames which set forth that negotiations should be opened with Canada with a view of establishing closer commercial relations with that country. Mr. Ames' resolution was referred to the ways and means committee, and the author charged that Mr. Payne refused to allow the committee to consider it, although he (Ames) presented a petition favoring it, signed by 77 Republican members, and also caused President Taft to write a letter to Mr. Payne urging the adoption of the resolution.

Mr. Ames got the floor by consent of Representative Tawney of Minnesota, who was in charge of the sundry civil appropriation bill. He evidently surprised the Minnesota representative with the character of his remarks, for Mr. Tawney refused to extend the time and informed the house that had he known that Mr. Ames contemplated an attack upon another member of the house he would have refused him time.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB IS DINED.

Three Hundred Million Dollars Capital is Represented at Dinner.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 21.—Men representing over $300,000,000 capital were hosts of Charles M. Schwab at a dinner in the Hotel Shelburne last night.

Charles M. Schwab.

It was a testimonial to Mr. Schwab for his work in bringing together the manufacturers of steel and iron forgings in the United States.

The dinner sat at a table on which was erected a structure of flowers reproducing the 24,000-pound steel hammer of the Bethlehem steel works, the greatest piece of machinery of its kind in the world.

DEMOCRATIC LEADER IS KILLED.

Kenneth F. Sutherland of Brooklyn is Dragged Under Train.

New York, May 21.—Kenneth F. Sutherland, right-hand man for John J. McKee and for many years influential in Democratic politics in Brooklyn, was killed by a train at the Thirty-fifth street station of the Bath Beach line.

As Mr. Sutherland leaped off the train he slipped on the wet cement and one of his feet was caught in the third rail "shoe" of the last car. He was drawn under the train.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey

The Water Flowers

WHEN the mice waked them last night with a tickle and a wish, the twins found them lingering a little yellow envelope with Japanese pictures on it.

"Cut, aren't they?" said Dorfy, taking Willy's Waterflower by his fat little paw. Davy brought the finger bowl from the table and set it on the rug.

"Japanese water flowers," read the Ticklemouse. "What are they, anyhow?" He took out one of the little round bits of bamboo pith and slowly broke it open.

"Not that way," cried Dorfy. "Read the directions." The Mouse did so, then put one of them into the finger bowl. The water loosened the glue and it suddenly spread out into a cluster of bright flowers.

"Some are fishes, too," said Davy, "and some are birds."

"Birds!" cried the Ticklemouse. "Not a bad idea, eh, Willy?"

"Chuck 'em in!" said Willy. Dorfy emptied the envelope into the bowl. Four or five of them quickly opened into little bamboo birds, green and red.

"Tickle 'em higher!" cried Willy, and his uncle's magic tip-toe quickly changed the tiny things into monstrous eagles. "Your turn, now!" smiled the Ticklemouse. "Wish them alive!" Willy stood on one leg, shut one eye, and began to wish.

"All aboard, now! Jump on quick, everybody!" cried the Mouse, and away they flew toward flowery Japan.

Fresh and spicy were the breezes that greeted them as they drew nearer Nagasaki. It was cherry-blossom time, and the city and all the countryside around were a bower of bloom. Willy rode closer to his uncle's side. "Let's circle around the harbor," he said, "and perhaps she'll see us as we near the house."

"Perhaps who will?" asked Dorfy, quickly. "Whose house?" asked Davy. "Little Madam Butterfly's," answered the Ticklemouse. "She's getting hungry for news from America, Willy and I can see her at the prophetic stars and stripes toward the little Japanese lady's home. At sight of the flag, Madam Butterfly's window flew open, and in a twinkling she stood in the flower garden with upraised arms.

"From America!" she cried in delight. "Tell me, have the robins nested again, over there?"

"Not quite yet," the Mouse called down to her in her native tongue, "but here's something to help you pass the time." He dropped the little package among the flowers at her feet. "Good-bye, little Chu-Chu-San. We must hurry back!" And with the rush of mighty wings they swept homeward through the fragrant sky.

"Tell me, Mr. Ticklemouse," pleaded Dorfy, when she and Davy were snug in bed again, "please tell me what was in that package?"

The Mouse winked at Willy. "Shall we?"

"Why not?" grinned Willy. "Wishing-mouse. It will mean running off another copy, but I guess it's worth it."

The Ticklemouse patted Dorfy good-night. "It was a book," he told her, "one Willy and I printed ourselves. If you think you'd really like a copy, we'll make up another. I feel pretty sure it will make a hit with you."

"What's the name of it?" asked Davy, sitting up in bed.

"The name," said the Mouse, proudly, "is 'The Ticklemouse and his Sleepyland Adventures with Davy and Dorfy.' 'Special Japanese edition' it will be with a skip and a nod, the two merry mice, vanished into the night."

A Mean Man Has His Place.
There is some satisfaction in knowing a downright mean man. You can by loving him well assure yourself a place in heaven and it will be rather satisfying after you get there to know that he went to the other place and got what was coming to him.

"Joy Cometh in the Morning."
Grief is crowned with consolation.—Shakespeare.

Are There Such?
A man's idea of a wife with a good head for money matters is where she will save her allowance till he borrows it and then not expect him to pay it back again.—New York Press.

Child Devoured by Eagles.
The skeleton of a three-year-old child who mysteriously disappeared from his parents' home about six years ago, and had never been heard of again, has been discovered by a hunter in an eagle's nest on the eastern Alps.

The Petty Things.
How all small cares and vexations, which daily accompany our life vanish at the first appearance of real misfortune, and I feel like so many reproaches the reminiscences of all complaints and covetous wishes over which I have so often forgotten how much blessing God gives us, and how much danger surrounds us without touching us.—Blamark.

Landlady's Bluff "Went."
A good story of a specimen of the ordinary theatrical landlady is told by J. L. Shilke, in the Dundee Advertiser. One Saturday evening he and a fellow actor purchased a pound of sausages for their Sunday's breakfast. There were eight in the pound, but when they arrived at the table there were only five. Thereupon the landlady was called in to account for the missing links. "Madam," said Mr. Shilke severely, "I gave you eight sausages last night; here are five only. What has become of the other three?" The lady of the house smiled an innocent smile, mingled with pity, and replied: "Well, you see, sir, sausages always do shrink in cooking." Which information had to suffice.

"Tis the Star Spangled Banner: O, long may it wave, O'er the land of the free, and the home of the brave!"
—Francis Scott Key.

On the night that Miss Elizabeth Churchill gave me her hand and her heart forever for which I have not yet ceased to thank God—there began the guns of Palo Alto. Later, there came the fields of Monterey, Buena Vista, Cerro Gordo, Contreras, Churubusco, Molino del Rey—at last the guns sounded at the gate of the old City of Mexico itself. Some of that fighting I myself saw; but much of the time I was employed in that matter of special work which had engaged me for the last few years. It was through Mr. Calhoun's agency that I reached a certain importance in these matters; and so I was chosen as the commissioner to negotiate a peace with Mexico.

This honor later proved to be a dangerous and questionable one. Gen. Scott wanted no interference of this kind, especially since he knew Mr. Calhoun's influence in my choice. He thwarted, all my attempts to reach the headquarters of the enemy, and did everything he could to secure a peace of his own, at the mouth of the cannon. I could offer no terms better than Mr. Buchanan, then our secretary of state, had prepared for me, and these were rejected by the Mexican government at last. I was ordered by Mr. Polk to state that we had no better terms to offer; and as for myself, I was told to return to Washington. At that time I could not make my way out through the lines, nor, in truth, did I much care to do so.

A certain event not written in history influenced me to remain for a time at the little village of Guadalupe Hidalgo. Here, in short, I received word from a lady whom I had formerly known, none less than Señora Yturria, once a member of the Mexican legation at Washington. True to her record, she had again reached influential position in her country, using methods of her own. She told me now to pay no attention to what had been reported by Mexico. In fact, I was approached again by the Mexican commissioners, introduced by her! What was done then is history. We signed then and there the peace of Guadalupe Hidalgo, in accordance with the terms originally given me by our secretary of state. So, after all, Calhoun's kindness to a woman in distress was not lost; and so, after all, he unwittingly helped in the ending of the war he never wished to begin.

Meanwhile, I had been recalled to Washington, but did not know the nature of that recall. When at last I arrived there I found myself disgraced and discredited. My actions were repudiated by the administration. I myself was dismissed from the service without pay—and enough blow for a young man who had been married less than a year.

Mr. Polk's jealousy of John Calhoun was not the only cause of this. Calhoun's prophecy was right. Yet, none the less, after his usual fashion, he was not averse to receiving such credit as he could. He put the responsibility of the treaty upon the senate! It was debated hotly there for some weeks, and at last, much to his surprise and my gratification, it was ratified!

The north, which had opposed this Mexican war—that same war which later led inevitably to the Civil War—now found itself unable to say much against the great additions to our domain which the treaty had secured. We paid fifteen millions, in addition to our territorial indemnity claim, and we got a realm whose wealth could not be computed. So much, it must be owned, did fortune do for that singular favorite, Mr. Polk. And, curiously enough, the smoke had hardly cleared from Palo Alto field before Abraham Lincoln, a young member in the house of congress, was introducing a resolution which asked the marking of "the spot where that outrage was committed." Perhaps it was an outrage. Many still hold it so. But let us reflect what would have been Lincoln's life had matters not gone just as they did.

With the cessions from Mexico came the great domain of California. Now, look how strangely history sometimes works out itself. Had there been any suspicion of the discovery of gold in California, neither Mexico nor our republic ever would have owned it! England surely would have taken it. The very year that my treaty eventually was ratified was that in which gold was discovered in California! But it was too late then for England to interfere; too late then, also, for Mexico to claim it. We got untold millions of treasure there. Most of those millions went to the northern states, into manufactures, into commerce. The north owned that gold; and it was that gold which gave the north the power to crush that uprising which was born of the Mexican war—that same uprising by which England, too late, would gladly have seen this union disrupted, so that she might have yet another chance at these lands she now had lost, for ever.

Fate seemed still to be with us, after all, as I have so often had occasion to believe may be a possible thing. That war of conquest which Mr. Calhoun opposed, that same war which grew out of the slavery tenets of his otherwise splendid public life—found its own correction in the civil war. It was the gold of California which put down slavery. Therefore, slavery has existed legally only north of the Mason and Dixon line!

We have our problems yet. Perhaps some other war may come to settle them. Fortunately for us if there could be another California, another Texas, another Oregon, to help us pay for them!

I, who was intimately connected with many of these less known matters, claim for my master a reputation wholly different from that given to him in my garbled "history" of his life. I lay claim in his name for foresight beyond that of any man of his time. He made mistakes, but he made them bravely, grandly, and consistently. Where his convictions were enlisted, he had no reservations, and he used every means, every available weapon, as I have shown. But he was never self-seeking, never cheap, never insincere. A detester of all machine politicians, he was a statesman worthy to be called the William Pitt of the United States. The consistency of his career was a marvelous thing, because, though he changed in his beliefs, he was first to recognize the changing conditions of our country. He failed, and he is forgotten.

My chief, Mr. Calhoun, did not die until some six years after that first evening when Dr. Ward and I had our talk with him. He was said to have died of a disease of the lungs, yet here again history is curiously mislabeled. Mr. Calhoun slept himself away. I sometimes think with a shudder that perhaps this was the revenge which Nemesis took of him for his mistakes. His last days were dream-like in their passing. His last speech in the senate was read by one of his friends, as Dr. Ward had advised him. Some said afterwards that his illness was that of a "sleeping sickness" imported from Africa with these same slaves. It was a strange thing had John Calhoun indeed died of his error! At least he slept away. At least, too, he made his atonement. The south, following his doctrines, itself was long accused of this same sleeping sickness; but in the providence of God it was not lost to us, and is ours for a long and splendid history.

It was through John Calhoun, a grave and sober figure of our history, that we got the vast land of Texas. It was through him also—and not through Clay nor Jackson, nor any of the northern statesmen, who never could see a future for the west—that we got all of our vast northwest realm. Within a few days after the Palo Alto battle, a memorandum of agreement was signed between Minister Pakenham and Mr. Buchanan, our secretary of state. This was done at the instance and by the aid of John Calhoun. It was he—him and Helena von Ritz—who brought about that treaty which, on June 15, of the same year, was signed, and gladly signed, by the minister from Great Britain. The latter had been fully enough impressed (such was the story) by the reports of the columns of our west-bound farmers, with rifles leaning at their wagon seats and plows lashed to the tail-gates. Calhoun himself never ceased to regret that we could not delay a year or two years longer. In this he was thwarted by the impetuous war with the republic on the south, although, had that never been fought, we had lost California—lost also the south, and lost the Union!

Under one form or other, one name of government or another, the flag of democracy eventually must float over all this continent. Not a part, but all of this country must be one, must be the people's. It may cost more blood and treasure now. Some time we shall see the wisdom of John Calhoun; but some time, too, I think, we shall see come true that prophecy of a strange and brilliant mentality, which in Calhoun's presence and in mine, said that all of these northern lands and all Mexico as well must one day be ours—which is to say, the people's—for the sake of human opportunity, of human hope and happiness. Our battles are but partly fought. But at least they are not, then, lost.

For myself, the close of the Mexican war found me somewhat worn by travel and ill equipped in financial matters. I had been discredited, I say, by my own government. My pay was withheld. Elizabeth, by that time my wife, was a girl reared in all the luxury that our country then could offer. Shall I say whether or not I prized her more when gladly she gave up all this and joined me for one more long and final journey out across that great trail which I had seen—the trail of democracy, of America, of the world?

At last we reached Oregon. It holds the grave of one of ours; it is the home of others. We were happy; we asked favor of no man; fear of no one did we feel. Elizabeth has in her time slept on a bed of bushes. She has cooked at a sooty fireplace of her own; and at her cabin door I myself have been the guard. We made our way by ourselves and for ourselves, as did those who conquered America for our flag. "The citizen standing in the doorway of his home shall save the Republic." So wrote a later poet.

It was not until long after the discovery of gold in California had set all to thinking that I was reminded of the strange story of the old German, Von Rittenhofen, of finding some pieces of gold while on one of his hunts for butterflies. I followed out his vague directions as best I might. We found gold enough to make us rich upon our land. That claim is staked legally. Half of it awaits an owner who perhaps will never come. (TO BE CONTINUED.)

DAILY DIET HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist.

BEWARE OF "ANCIENT" FOODS.

All animal and vegetable matter begins to decay immediately when killed or cut from the roots in moist soil, and decaying matter is poisonous. Low temperature retards the decay of animal matter, but refrigeration is never perfect and there is a natural limit to cold storage, and to the length of time food may be safely preserved in cans, however well sealed, for there is always some air, and with air and moisture at ordinary temperature fermentation must take place. This implies the necessity of care in the use of canned or cold storage or preserved goods of any kind. Food that has been frozen spoils much more quickly. Vegetables and fruits that have been frozen are unfit for use and animal food, especially eggs, should be used immediately. Bananas and fruits and vegetables generally should not be separated from stem or roots till they are about to be used.

MAY PROVE FATAL

When Will Janesville People Learn the Importance of It? Backache is only a simple thing at first.

But when you know 'tis from the kidneys; That serious kidney troubles follow;

That diabetes, Bright's disease may be the fatal end, You will gladly profit by the following experience.

'Tis the statement of a Janesville citizen.

Mrs. Emma Hall, 418 S. Franklin St., Janesville, Wis., says, "I suffered severely from pains in the small of my back for months. My head ached at times and later on my kidneys became disordered, the secretions being unnatural. I was feeling miserable when someone told me to try Doan's Kidney Pills. I procured a supply at the People's Drug Co., and after using two or three boxes, I was completely cured. I hope many other sufferers from kidney trouble will try Doan's Kidney Pills and be convinced of their merit."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

One of the simplest and best panaceas for an attack of nerves is a hot bath. If a woman who is fatigued by the day's work finds herself unable to sleep after going to bed, she had much better take a hot bath than indulge in a drug, even of the mildest description. There is something remarkably relaxing in immersion in hot water, and unless the plunge lasts too long there is not the slightest danger of being weakened by it.

To put a time limit upon the bath is impossible, because it depends upon the original vitality of the individual. One whose strength was much lessened could not stay in the water for more than ten minutes, while for another twenty minutes is none too long. The way one feels on getting out is the best criterion, for there should be a gentle sensation of lassitude, but not that of exhaustion.

If to gain sleep is the object for which the bath is taken, everything should be prepared before getting into the water. The bed must be open and there should be a hot water bag in it to warm the sheets, that there shall be no shock of cold linen. Fresh air from an open window is a necessity, but draught is not desirable.

These details attended to, the water in the tub should be of a temperature just comfortable to the skin. After the whole body has gone beneath the surface the hot faucet must be turned on, slowly letting the temperature of the bath rise until it is as hot as can be endured comfortably. Occasionally more hot water can be added in this way, for as the skin becomes accustomed to warmth it can endure more.

Remedy for Leaking Fountain Pen.

If the threads in the rubber connection of a fountain pen are worn a little the joint will leak enough to soil the fingers. Dry the threads with a blotter and cover them with melted paraffin. Turn the nozzle into the barrel while the paraffin is still warm and you have an ink tight joint—Popular Mechanics.

Made the Guests Smile.

A story is being told about a certain European sovereign who paid a visit to England two or three years ago. He attended a bridge party one afternoon, and, as darkness began to fall, his hostess said to him: "Sir, if you'll allow me I'll call for lights. I can't distinguish the king from the knave."

New Perfection WICK BLUE FLAME Oil Cook-stove

Is the latest practical, scientific cook-stove. It will cook the most elaborate dinner without heating the kitchen.

Bolls, bakes, or roasts better than any range. Ready in a second. Extinguished in a second. Fitted with Cabinet Top, with collapsible rests, towel rack, and every up-to-date feature imaginable. You want it, because it will cook any dinner and heat the room. No heat, no smell, no smoke, no coal to bring in, no ashes to carry out. It does away with the drudgery of cooking, and makes it a pleasure. Women with the light touch for pastry especially appreciate it, because they can immediately have a quick fire, simply by turning a handle. No half-hour preparation. It not only is less trouble than coal, but it costs less. Absolutely no smell, no smoke, and it doesn't heat the kitchen.

The nickel finish, with the turquoise blue of the enameled chimneys, makes the stove ornamental and attractive. Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners; the 2 and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without Cabinet.

WISCONSIN'S GOVERNORS

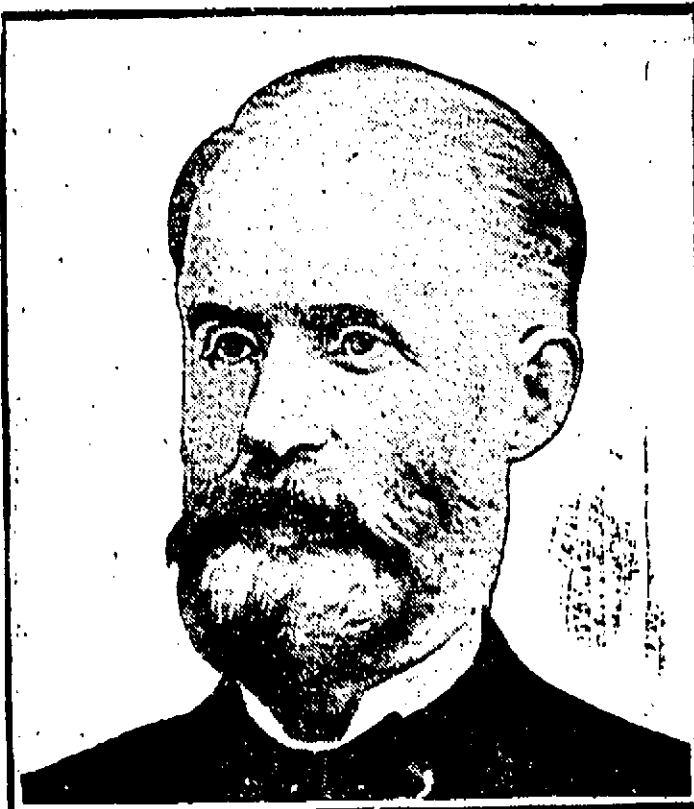

WILLIAM ROBERT TAYLOR—1874-1876.

William Robert Taylor was the famous granger governor of Wisconsin and is now passing his declining years in the Ghislet Home For the Aged, near Madison. He was born in Connecticut July 10, 1820, and reared in Jefferson county, N. Y. In 1840 he moved to Elgin, O., where he taught school, and from there went to Cleveland, where he spent several years. He moved to Wisconsin in 1848, the year the state was admitted to the Union, and settled on a farm in Cottage Grove, a short distance east of Madison. He has held many local and state offices, serving as county superintendent of schools, chairman of the June county board of supervisors, county superintendent of poor, member of the lower house of the legislature in 1855 and member of the state senate in 1850 and 1860. The famous Potter law, in which the doctrine of state control of public service corporations was first enunciated, was passed by the legislature while he was governor.

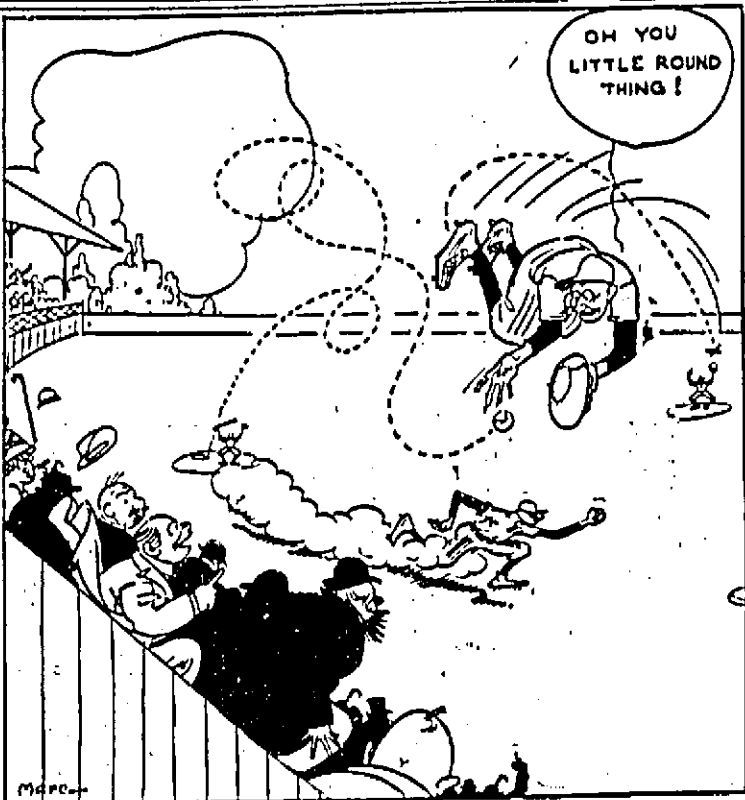

HARRISON LUDINGTON—1876-1878.

Harrison Ludington was born at Ludingtonville, Putnam county, N. Y., July 31, 1812, and died June 17, 1891. In November, 1838, he moved to Milwaukee and engaged in the mercantile business with his brother Lewis. Later he engaged in the lumber business as a member of the firm of Ludington, Wells & Van Schuler and accumulated a large fortune. He served as alderman in the city of Milwaukee in 1861 and 1862 and as mayor of that city three terms, from 1871 to 1875, resigning to assume the office of Republican governor. While serving as mayor of Milwaukee he headed the movement in that city for the relief of the victims of the Chicago fire. Though often urged to accept public office after the expiration of his term as governor, he always declined. He was married twice, the first time to Miss Frances White of Louisville, Ky., March 25, 1838, and some time after her death to Mrs. E. M. Tobey of Milwaukee.

WILLIAM EDWARD SMITH—1878-1882.

William Edward Smith was born near Inverness, Scotland, June 18, 1824, and brought to America by his parents in 1835, the family settling at Commerce, Mich. Young Smith entered the mercantile business early, working in New York city and other places. In 1840 he came west and settled in Racine county, Wis., and a little later at Fox Lake, Dodge county, where he engaged in mercantile business. He held many political offices. He served in the lower house of the legislature in 1851 and 1871, in the state senate in 1858, 1860, 1861 and 1865 and as state treasurer from 1860 to 1870. In 1872 he moved to Milwaukee and was nominated and elected Republican governor in 1877 and was re-elected two years later. He became one of the merchant princes of Milwaukee. He died Feb. 13, 1883, from pneumonia contracted while serving as chairman of the citizens' relief committee.

Play Ball

By WALT MASON

"Play ball!" you hear the fans exclaim, when weary of a dragging game, when all the players pause to state their theories in a joint debate, or when they go about their biz as though they had the rheumatiz. And if they do not heed the hunch that's given by the bleachers bunch, they find, when next they start to play, that all the fans have stayed away. The talking graft is all in vain, and loafers give the world a pain. The fans who watch the game of life despise the sluggard in the strife. They'll have but little use for you, who tell what you intend to do, and hand out promises galore, but, somehow, never seem to score. No matter what your stunt may be, in this the country of the free, you'll find that loafing never pays; cut out the fussy grand stand plays; put in your hardest licks and whacks, and get right down to Old Brass Tacks, and, undismayed by bruise or fall, go right ahead—in short, play ball!

"CHUCK" STEAK VS. TENDERLOIN.

The most expensive cuts of meat are not the best. Whatever objections may be urged against meat apply equally to all parts of the carcass except, perhaps, the liver and kidneys and lungs which, as they are the purifying grounds of the blood, can hardly be regarded as fit to eat, and there is no more nourishment in sirloin or porterhouse than in round. For certain temperaments "chuck" steak may be preferable to tenderloin, just as a bone is better for a dog than soup—he needs the chewing on a hard substance. The experience of Fletcherites and the Yale experiments show that as the art of thorough mastication is acquired, the appetite for meat is gradually reduced. "Chuck" steak demands most chewing, and contains as much nutriment as other kinds.

This Car for $1,000

This is how an enormous output has cut the cost of Overlands 20 per cent.

In our largest factory—once the great Pope-Toledo plant—we are turning out eight Overland Models No. 38 per day.

We are making under one roof nearly every part of the car. And every machine in the factory is adapted to this particular model.

In this way we are saving about 20 per cent. We are giving for $1,000 a better car than the Overland which last year sold for $1,250.

Yet last year we gave more than anyone else ever attempted to give for the money.

None Can Complete

It is so with all Overland models—with our $1,250, $1,400 and $1,500 cars. Each is the utmost at its price.

All prices include magneto and full lamp equipment.

The four factories must this year make $24,000,000 worth of Overland cars to fill orders already placed.

This enormous output—this specialization—places Overland cars beyond all competition. To sell equal cars at the Overland prices would ruin a smaller maker.

Simplicity

The demand for Overland automobiles has multipled 500 times over in the past two years. It has made Overland sales the largest in the world.

The reason lies in the Overland's matchless simplicity. A 10-year-old child can master the car in five minutes.

Never was a car so easy to operate—so easy to keep in order. That is why our car has sold others, and the others sold others, until today 4,000 men are employed to meet the demand for Overlands.

A Wonderful Story

Here is a car so amazingly simple—so handsome, so powerful, so cheap—that in two years it has captured a large part of the whole automobile trade. Neither in city or country is there a car that sells like it.

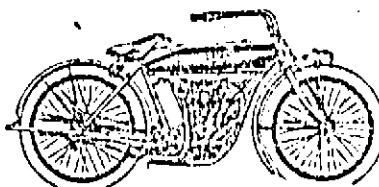

This sensational success forms a fascinating story, and we have told it all in a book. You cannot know the best about automobiles till you read it.
